NORTHERN EXPRESSWAY TECHNICAL TOUR

TOUR GUIDE: Mike Kenealy, Construction Manager

Get a Sneak Peak of the new Expressway prior to it is opened to the public in September!

The Northern Expressway Project is a joint venture between Fulton Hogan and York Civil, a design and construct project consisting of 23 km, four lane divided expressway joining the Sturt Highway at the Gawler Bypass to Port Wakefield Road, north of Waterloo Corner. It is the largest road construction project in Adelaide since the 1960s and has been jointly funded by the Australian Government and by the South Australian Government.

The project includes 14 bridge structures and over 2.5 million m$^3$ of earthworks. A mobile asphalt plant has been purchased and established onsite to expedite the production of 450,000 Tonnes of Asphalt.

Tour will include a tour of the expressway alignment, showing earthworks at various stages, drainage, bridge structures, asphalt laying, borrow pits, plant and equipment in action, conservation and environmental initiatives.

NB: All attendees are required to wear sunglasses, long sleeved shirts, long trousers and steel capped boots must also be worn in order to be able to undertake the tour. Hard hats and safety vests will be loaned to attendees while they are on site.

For safety reasons, individuals who are not appropriately dressed for the site will not be able to undertake the tour. Tour will be conducted from a bus.

Members – Free, Non Members – $10
